DIRECTOR & DOP

Holger Jaquet, born in 1973, is actually not a French but a North German filmmaker.

He's done pretty much everything you can do in terms of film - he was an Art Director, Onliner, VFX Artist, Cameraman and Editor. Fortunately, he decided to become a Director.

Studying at the HBK Braunschweig strengthened his preference for visual and narrative experimentation that works equally well for music, fashion or Mercedes.

With his short film "The One", a 4min one-shot in which a protagonist as a drunkard lives through a pub night, he made it to various festivals.

And with his work "Weltrekord" for the Cologne fair Photokina, he set a record in collaboration with Canon - a TimeSlice Shot that was shot with 130 cameras and thus got an entry in the Guinness Book of Records.

Settled in a flood-prone part of Hamburg, he has been working as a Director for film productions in Germany, Austria and Switzerland since 2010.
